About Ideaco

At Ideaco we aim to design and produce products with innovative ideas, beauty, aesthetic simplicity and convenience to everyday life. Our challenge is to reduce waste and use smart technologies to produce high-quality materials, which represent aesthetic and moral values such as waste reduction.

All these values stem from ancient Japanese perspectives on nature called “Sansensoumokushikkaijyoubutu”.

This means that we believe that Divinity lives in all things, from the tallest mountain, the flowing river and the living trees down to the very grass and pebbles on the ground we walk on.

In Japanese, the term for an idyllic setting like pristine natural woodlands, is “Satoyama”.

Those fortunate enough to live in the Satoyama have customs and a lifestyle which is focused on only taking what is really needed and giving nature time to recover itself.

Such a lifestyle is centered on respect for the environment and the world of that we are all part. In such a world waste is a thing from the past. Much of contemporary and modern Japanese culture and aesthetics stem from the Satoyama perspective on nature.

The roots of Ideaco’s designs are taken directly from the Satoyama landscape. We strive for aesthetic simplicity without waste.

TUBELOR

The Tubelor waste bin has won the iF Design award in 2008.

The Tubelor design is inspired by the concepts of being conscious of the environment, waste reduction and being innovative without losing aesthetics.

The streamlined design makes the Tubelor look less like a waste bin, and more like a piece of modern sculpture.

Since then Ideaco has designed and developed an entire range of waste bins all based on the original award-winning Tubelor.

Many offices and design & boutique hotels around the world have been adorned with an item from the Tubelor series of waste bins.

TUBELOR Cotton

Tubelor Cotton is one of the smallest models, allowing it to be used discreetly next to a coffee machine, on a shelf or in the medicine cabinet.

Its tilted mouth gives it a particular smiley-like appearance and allows you to throw away surprisingly large items.

Because of its smaller and unique shape it is suited for the kitchen worktop and the bathroom sink as well.

IKIGAI

EXCLUSIVE DESIGN BRANDS

At Ikigai we love simple and aesthetic design paired with a strong consciousness for the environment. Our love is inspired by Japanese brands and products.

We are proud to be the European distributor for the Japanese brand IDEACO. In The Netherlands we collaborate with Thomas Merlo & Partner AG for the distribution of MT Masking Tape, Merlo | T, Mino Watermark Collection, Mino On Glass, Minoshi Garden designed by atelier Oï.

We are continuously looking for other products and brands with focus on unique style, innovative design and aesthetic simplicity produced with durable materials. We aim to bring beauty and convenience to your everyday life.
